

Vectra's Security & Continuity Group

Security Management & Information Security Solutions

Vectra's Security & Continuity Group provides a practical approach to Security and Business Continuity Management (BCM) for all types of organisation. Our consultants have extensive experience in range of professional consulting services, including:

Security Management

Vectra offers a full range of security management capabilities ranging from the strategic to the design of security systems and from physical security, through personnel and personal security to information security solutions. The physical security offering includes a unique capability to provide design and implementation of security control systems and the associated control rooms.

Information Security Solutions

A strategic understanding of the best way to implement information security solutions is vital to achieve value for money in a field that can be extremely expensive. Vectra's consultants have extensive experience of the relationship between threat, security methodologies and the human link in security breaches and can ensure that recommended approaches are cost effective.

Security Management & Information Security Solutions

Security is an integrated system of activities, systems, programs, facilities and policies for the protection of organisational information, property, personnel and equipment. As the world continues to change, protecting these assets has become more challenging.

Vectra's consultants have extensive experience of designing and implementing cost-effective security management programmes incorporating physical, personnel, information, communications and technological countermeasures.

In addition to policies and procedures, we provide training and exercising and also have experience in the development of command control and electronic security solutions

With a reputable track record in providing control rooms, Vectra have access to all the specialist skills and a wealth of in-house experience to deliver effective control room solutions.

In addition, Vectra provides unique expertise in the design, procurement, configuration and building of sophisticated security infrastructures. Utilising the latest technology from the security industry our solutions can either be conventional through to operating over a TCP/IP and wireless networks.

We work with you to ensure a holistic approach to securing your assets and enhancing your risk management programmes.
